Postcards from Professional Paradise

Welcome to the inaugural edition of my "new & improved" ezine, Postcards from Professional Paradise.

First let me allay your fears - if you have any - the format will still be short and sweet. I'll still share my thoughts and ask for yours. The look is new and the focus will be exclusively on creating a Professional Paradise for yourself, those around you and your organization as a whole.

You see, I'm on a mission to get the word out about Professional Paradise. I need to let everyone know that not only is it possible...it's probable. Because Professional Paradise starts with your mindset and everyone has control over their own mindset!

Imagine a world, a community or even a single office building where everyone experiences Professional Paradise. The "vibes" would be unbelievable - the positive energy unmatched. Now that's something I dream about at night (literally).

Over the next several months, I'll tell you exactly what you need to do, step by step, to create your own Professional Paradise. (But if you just can't wait, click here to get started and to download FREE Paradise Tools).

But for today, just sit back and get ready to giggle.

To launch Postcards from Professional Paradise, I'm unveiling my soon-to-be-famous Professional Paradise Rap song. Yes, you read that right - me rapping to an original song written by the very talented Andrew Finkelstein.

Let's get this party going! Please invite ALL of your colleagues, friends and family to join us in Professional Paradise where we're living the good life at work - send them the link to the Professional Paradise Rap on YouTube and share the good vibes.

Click here NOW to see the rap yourself then please send the link to everyone you know!

After all, who would want to work in Professional Paradise?

Signing off from Professional Paradise-
